DESIGN STYLES

Monolith

A masterclass in symmetrical balance and tonal harmony. This ensemble pairs structured architectural details with soft, organic textures to create a space that feels timeless yet distinctly contemporary.

Horizon

Embrace the beauty of "low living" with a suite designed to ground the room. This collection prioritizes horizontal lines and organic textures to evoke a sense of quiet luxury and meditative calm.

Solace

Inspired by the soft contours of nature, the Solace collection replaces rigid structures with flowing, pebble-like forms. It is designed for open-plan living where furniture doubles as functional sculpture, creating a seamless flow throughout the home.

Arc

A dialogue between light and shadow. This suite focuses on tactile surfaces—from the grooved patterns of the rug to the 3D relief of the wall art—creating a multi-dimensional living space that remains serene and grounded.

Linear

A study in architectural precision and warmth. This suite uses verticality and block-based geometry to create a sense of structure and permanence, softened by a monochromatic palette of earth tones.

Pebble

A study in soft geometry and inviting texture. The Pebble collection is designed for the modern lounge, featuring a low-profile, modular silhouette that mimics the smooth, organic shapes of river stones while providing cloud-like comfort.

Flute

A bridge between Art Deco grace and modern minimalism. This suite is defined by its vertical rhythmic detailing—from the "channeled" sofa back to the fluted wall sconces—creating a space that feels tall, airy, and meticulously tailored.

Channel

A modern homage to the glamour of Art Deco. The Channel collection uses rhythmic, vertical proportions and soft curves to create a sense of movement and "embrace," making it a luxurious focal point for formal living spaces.

Sculpt

Architecture meets furniture. The Sculpt suite focuses on internal structure, where the "fluting" detail is on the interior of the piece, creating a cozy, ribbed cocoon that feels both protective and sophisticated.

Horizon

Embrace the beauty of "low living" with a suite designed to ground the room. This collection prioritizes horizontal lines and organic textures to evoke a sense of quiet luxury and meditative calm.

Aura

A masterclass in soft geometry and chromatic depth. The Aura sofa challenges traditional silhouettes with its continuous, low-slung frame and asymmetric backrest, designed to act as a functional piece of art in a minimalist space.

Solstice

A masterclass in soft geometry and chromatic depth. The Solstice sofa challenges traditional silhouettes with its continuous, low-slung frame and asymmetric backrest, designed to act as a functional piece of art in a minimalist space.

THE FRAMEWORK:

The longevity of a sofa is determined by its frame.

- Solid Hardwood: The gold standard. Species like Teak, Oak, or Neem wood are kiln-dried to remove moisture, preventing warping or cracking over time.
- Engineered Woods: High-quality Birch Plywood is often used for curved architectural shapes that solid wood cannot achieve.
- Metal Reinforcements: In modern, slim-profile luxury sofas, steel frames are used for maximum strength with minimal bulk.

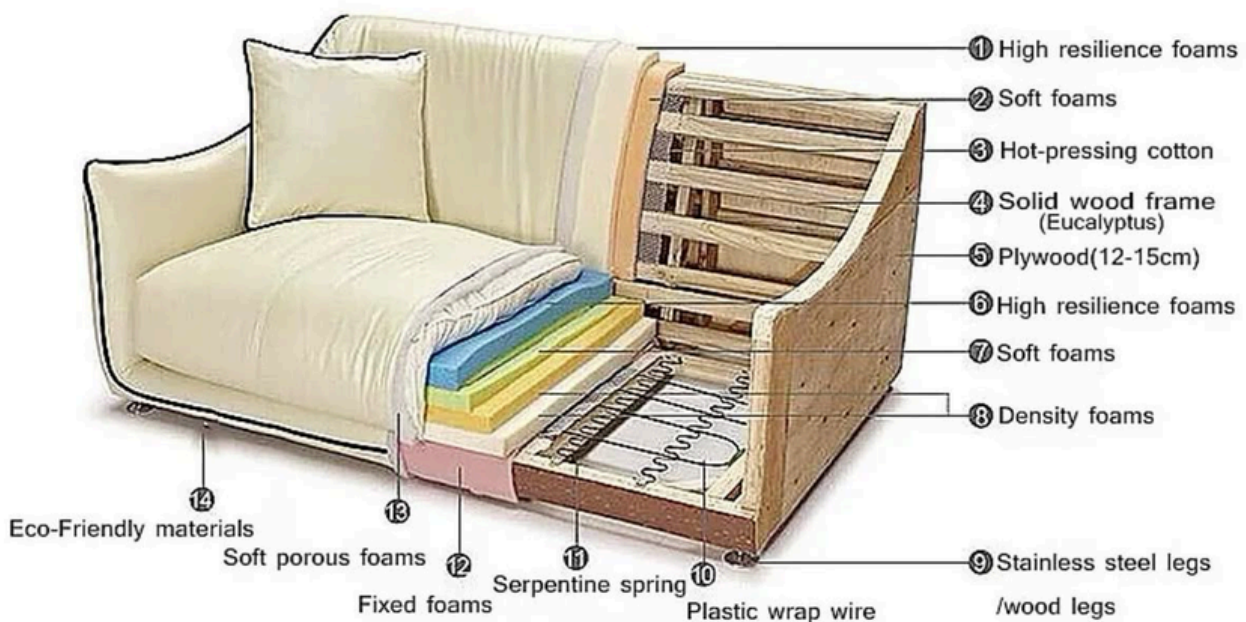

THE SUSPENSION SYSTEM:

- Eight-Way Hand-Tied Springs: The pinnacle of traditional craftsmanship. Springs are tied manually in eight directions, offering even support and preventing sagging.
- Sinuous Springs: "S" shaped wires that provide a sleek profile. Ideal for modern, low-profile designs.
- Pocket Springs: Individual springs wrapped in fabric (similar to high-end mattresses), offering targeted pressure relief.

CUSHIONING & INFILL:

- High-Resiliency (HR) Foam: Unlike standard foam, HR foam has a cell structure that bounces back instantly. It should be rated by density (e.g., 32kg/m^3 to 40kg/m^3 for luxury).
- Feather & Down Wrap: For that "cloud-like" feel, foam cores are wrapped in a layer of sterilized goose feathers or down.
- Memory Foam Layers: Often used in ergonomic designs to contour to the body, a nod to automotive seating technology.

UPHOLSTERY FABRICS:

Material Type	Characteristics	Best For
Top-Grain Leather	Natural, breathable, and develops a patina over time.	Executive spaces & high-traffic luxury.
Performance Velvet	High rub-count (Martindale scale), stain-resistant, and opulent.	Bold, eclectic statements.
Linen Blends	High breathability and a sophisticated, organic texture.	Minimalist, airy interiors.
Bouclé	Heavy, looped yarn that provides immense tactile interest.	Contemporary, "curvy" furniture.
